

Otters weekly update – week beginning 24th May

Another week has gone by and we have seen some lovely learning!

Next week:

- We are finishing off our half term on animal and pets. We are going to design our own pets and write about them. I wonder what our pet will look like?
- In numeracy, we are looking at subtraction. We will focus on the language of subtraction etc.
- As always we will be revisiting and playing games with our set 2 sounds.

Other things to remember:

- Please remember to read as much as you can (label on Tapestry – Home reading)
- A gentle reminder - we change reading books EVERY Friday, please remember to bring in old books ready for new ones!

Owls weekly update – week beginning 24th May

Well done for another super (but windy!) week.

Next week in English we are looking at and learning about lighthouses. We will be reading the story, 'The Lighthouse Keeper'. In Maths we will be looking at $\frac{1}{4}$ of a shape and an amount. On Wednesday we have 'Open Books' and will be planting our very own beans in Science. More planting in Forest School with Mrs Stewart! In music we will be singing 'A Whole New World' from Aladdin.

On Friday we will be designing our lighthouses in DT - please start saving Pringles tubes at home over the half term - we will need one per child.

Have a lovely weekend. Don't get blown away!

Woodpeckers weekly update – week beginning 24th May

We have had a great week! We are enjoying reading 'The Boy Who Unplugged the Sea', telling the time, learning about seed dispersal and about the five oceans of the world.....the children need a rest!

Next week:

In English we will be continuing with 'The Boy Who Unplugged the Sea'. We will also be writing spring poems and including alliteration.

In Maths we will be continuing to focus on time - looking at quarter past, quarter to and 5 minute intervals. We will be looking at the times for the sequence of our day.

In RE we will be learning about the Torah as a special book for Jewish people. We will be talking about our own special books and making our own Torahs.

In PSHE we will be reading and discussing The Patchwork Quilt. This story is about the importance of family.

In our topic lessons we will be looking at lighthouses and as part of DT we will be designing our own lighthouses. We will make these after half term!
